The subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Adam and Fallen Man" on Sunday in all branches of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. A Scriptural selection in the Lesson-Sermon includes the words of Paul to the Ephesians: "Let us put on the new man with his attributes. . . . For ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord; walk as children of light; and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather approve them. . . . But all things that are approved are made manifest by the light; for whatsoever doth manifest in light. Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light." One of the passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, states: "It is well that the upper portions of the brain represent higher moral sentiments, as if hope were ever prophesying thus: The human mind will sometime rise above all material and physical sense, exchanging it for spiritual perception, and exchanging human concepts for the divine consciousness. Then man will recognize his God-given dominion and being."

In Memory of Our Mothers

By MRS. E. L. HORTON
(For several years Mrs. Horton, who lives at 2023 Gramercy, has contributed a Mothers' Day poem to The Herald and we have come to look forward to her contribution, carefully penned in blue ink on lined paper. This is her 1938 poem):

Mothers young and handsome
Mothers old and gray,
Mothers of the years gone by
And mothers of today,
It matters not if rich or poor
These homes of ours be,
For mother we know will care for us
For she loves us, don't you see?

It was mother who guided our wobbly feet
And kissed our hurts away,
At night when we knelt down by her side
"Twice she taught us how to pray,
How she treasured each little word we said
And watched each little smile,
No matter how sick or tired she was
She would play with us awhile.

If we could see that dear mother again,
Hold those hands so toil worn with care,
And kiss those dear lips that smiled so sweet
And hear that voice once more in prayer;
I know that some of us surely would try
And help her carry her load,
For some day we too will have burdens to bear
And travel that lonely road.

I know she crossed to the other side
And knelt at Jesus' feet,
He is the same Jesus she told us about
The one we too will meet.
God bless all mothers!
God bless them we say,
May they find love and peace
On this Mothers' Day.

Twenty-four members of the local junior choir will join with other choirs in the colorful procession preceding the service. Bishop Stevens and Bishop Gooden will deliver short addresses. Members of the junior choir and church school who desire to make the trip are invited to meet in the local parish hall at 1 p. m. Sunday.

Author Questions Worth of Huge Education Bill
Education of their children costs parents in the United States two billion dollars annually. They support a 10-billion-dollar plant. They make it possible for a million and a half American young persons to attend college, compared with 50,000 not many years ago. Over three-quarters of all children in the United States now go to school.

"Are the results worth the price?" That's the question Dr. Henry C. Link, psychologist and author, asks after presenting the above figures, in the current Rotarian magazine.

"The free education which parents so often force on their children," says Dr. Link, "may be a source of more harm than good. The ideal education program would be one in which all children, rich or poor, had to work to pay at least part of their expenses, especially during the summer months. Some colleges already follow this plan, with very satisfying results.

"In the absence of the ideal program, parents can make further education of their college student contingent upon his getting a job during the summer, doing some paying work at school, or, at least, keeping his expenses to an absolute minimum. If a student has time for nothing but his studies, and even so finds college work difficult, then probably he would do better to get a job.

"The longer a person postpones the getting of a job, the less likely he is to find it, or the less fit he may be for it when he does find it. This is a matter of personality, not economics, and personalities make exceptions; not as we are so often told, the reverse."

Residents and property owners of the 4th Supervisorial District of Los Angeles County will be assured, full protective measures against flood dangers under actions pushed by Supervisor Leland M. Ford which provide for storm drain improvements amounting to some 25 million dollars which would be spent in the district.

"We are seeking to secure Federal funds with which to carry out this essential work for the area," Ford declares. Included in the storm drain improvement program is Lomita boulevard for Lomita and Torrance, $1,700,000.

Decide On Tests for Poll Aides in County Soon

Whether some other kind of an examination is to be given election-board workers and whether appointments to boards shall be made only from a qualified list is expected to be determined shortly, following an opinion filed this week by County Counsel John H. Connor.

It would be illegal for the county civil service commission to use county funds to give such an examination, but the supervisors could, by ordinance, create a department of positions with duties of examining prospective election board officers, O'Connor said.

The suggestion that election board officials be required to qualify above out of the errors that have been made by previous election boards, and the fact that many of them cannot be explained. Since the law requires that the count be uninterrupted, the boards often continue all night after a heavy vote, and effect of the fatigue upon some of the older clerks was blamed for many of the errors made.

Hartman Seeks Assessor's Job
J. W. Hartman, chief deputy county assessor for the past six years, has announced his candidacy for the non-partisan office of Los Angeles County assessor at the August primary election. County Assessor Hopkins, who has held this office for the past generation, has declared he will retire from public life at the conclusion of his present term and will not be a candidate for re-election.

Hartman pledges, if elected, to continue the present high standards of the county assessor's office, all details of which he is more thoroughly familiar with than any other man. His 14 years of training and experience within the office has won for him wide recognition as a recognized authority on valuation and taxation. He lives in Glendale.

Recovered Relief Money Sufficient to Cut Tax Levy
The amount of money recovered from rehabilitated relief recipients of their locally responsible relatives, by the county charities department, already has been sufficient to save two cents on the county tax levy. Superintendent Rex Thomson told the board of supervisors this week. Thomson's statement was made in answer to recent reported criticism of the charities department for seeking reimbursement from individuals who had received charity funds. He said that forced reimbursement encourages persons on relief to devise means of self-support.
